51. Working Western (12) Judge's note: In any "cow" event, pipe fencing or a wall is the norm so the cattle are less apt to run through it. Cattle can break a board fence very easily. If you do use board fencing in your background, please put an explanation, such as "training" or similar. A competition would have a wall or pipe fencing. I judged all these models without taking into account of whatever fencing is being used. Also in any "working" event, tack is plain; no silver or "bling." The rider wears "working" clothes, no show clothes. In cutting, chaps are worn in competition. Also, don't forget to put an explanation as to what the horse is doing; some models would have placed higher had they had an explanation. Good luck!
